20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The committees serve as advisory panels to the program officers for the evaluation of proposals for selected NSF programs. These panels provide recommendations to the program officers as to which of the submitted proposals should and should not be funded. While the panels are advisory, their recommendations are normally the most significant factor in the decision making process. While the workload is solely dependent on the number of proposals that are reviewed in this manner, in the typical panel setting, each individual will review about ten proposals. This requires approximately 30 days of effort before the panel meeting. The meeting typically requires one to two days of effort, with an additional day required for travel.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

Panelists for the sessions are selected based on their knowledge of the fields represented by the proposals submitted. At the same time, every effort is made to insure a diversity that approximates that found in the research community. Representatives are included from both major research centers and smaller colleges and universities. Representatives from non-academic organizations are included wherever appropriate. Members of underrepresented populations in computer and information science and engineering are included.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

Meetings are held as required to fulfill the mission of the Division. In this fiscal year seventy nine panels were held to assist in the evaluation of regular research proposals, in the areas such as Algorithmic Foundations, Communications & Information Foundations, Software and Hardware Foundations, Exploiting Parallelism and Scalability, Cyber-Innovation for Sustainability Science and Engineering, Expeditions and Algorithms in the Field. The number is determined by the number of proposals to be reviewed and the need for as timely review as possible within the limited resources available for support of the panel.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

Merit review represents the recognized strength of the National Science Foundation. While a mail merit review is possible mail reviewers generally are used for additional reviews to meet the rating requirements and/or for judgment normally made about a single proposal viewed in isolation. The panel provides the unique opportunity for the reviewers to calibrate their reviews based on comparative merits for all proposals submitted within a single complex, or multidisciplinary proposals.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

To review proposals that included information of a proprietary or confidential nature, including technical information; financial data such as salaries; and personal information concerning individuals associated with the proposals.

21. Remarks

None

Designated Federal Officer

Rance Cleaveland Division Director, CCF

Narrative Description

The NSF mission is set out in the NSF Act of 1950 authorizes and directs the Agency to initiate and support: basic scientific research and research fundamental to the engineering process; and science and engineering education programs at all levels and in all fields of science and engineering. The involvement of knowledgeable peers from outside the Foundation in the review of proposals is the keystone of NSF's proposal review system. Their judgements of the extent to which proposals address the merit review criteria are vital for informing NSF staff and influencing funding recommendations.
